WOODWARD & LOTHROP.

HEART and HOME TALKS

by Barbara Boyd

It is proverbial that the American husband spoils the American wife. A husband in a certain suburban town is doing this to perfection, and friends are looking on approvingly and wondering what the end will be.

He owns a home in the town, but his wife is homesome, doesn't like the place, and wants to move away. To keep her satisfied, he is buying her all sorts of things far beyond his means. He has a fairly good business, but nothing to support the extravagance into which he is plunging.

His first investment was an automobile. She was delighted, and for awhile contented. She learned to manage it herself, and she ran about in it visiting friends, having all sorts of jolly outings, and thoroughly enjoying herself. But the novelty wore off in time, and the old spirit of discontent settled upon her.

His next extravagance was a new home, a handsome affair of stone, with a conservatory and various other additions she continually keeps thinking of.

She is as delighted with this as a child with a new toy. But he is looking worried and harassed. Undoubtedly, he is already in deeper financial waters than he can navigate. And no doubt, as soon as the novelty of this wears off, she will be wanting something else.

She is without doubt extremely selfish, and one would conclude she had little real love for him to add burdens like these to his life. But dropping her out of the problem, is he wise in thus humoring her?

Would it not be kinder, when he has come to a point financially where he knows he ought to stop, to put his foot down firmly and go no farther? Would it not be better for their future happiness to talk matters over with her plainly, even though it were a hard thing to do, and tell her clearly that she is simply selfish in thus goading him to do what he knows is ill-advised? She, no doubt, would weep, and she might sulk.

WOULDN'T PLAY "JULIET."

All actors are said to believe that they could play Juliet as it was never played before, if given the opportunity. The ambition of all actresses seems to be to play Juliet once and show the world how it should be played. An exception to this has been found in Miss Grace Goodall, the eccentric head waitress in George M. Cohan's comedy success, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," who says she not only does not want to play Juliet, but if the part were ever given to her she would quit the company. In the matter of type preference Miss Goodall wants any part that can be characterized, and to her, the ordinary so-called "straight" part is usually a bore to have to play.

Henry W. Savage, who was here Monday to see the opening of his second first production of the season, says he will produce several other of his new plays for the first time in Washington.

George M. Cohan and Sam Harris are visiting Washington watching the performances of Mr. Cohan's first straight dramatic effort, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," at the National.

Miss May Buckley, leading woman of "The Little Damsel," at the Belasco Theater, is the wife of Martin Sabine, who was Guy Standing's leading man when he had a stock company at the Columbia.

Mr. Asa Blodgett, general press representative for the Savage productions, is visiting in Washington.

BIG AERO TOURNEY IS NOW ASSURED

Proposals Are Considered by Chamber of Commerce.

FIGURES ARE PRESENTED

Secretary of National Aviation Company Asks for Indorsement of Meet at Benning in Fall and Declares Flights Will Benefit Washington Business Men.

Washington will have an aviation meet this fall which will be second only to the international exhibition at New York. This was evidenced yesterday at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, which was called for the purpose of considering a proposition by J. S. Berger, of New York. Mr. Berger, however, was not present, but probably will arrive to-day and be given a hearing.

In the absence of Mr. Berger other plans was considered, the principal one being presented by J. Lynn Yeagle, secretary of the National Aviation Company, a Washington organization.

Mr. Yeagle, who was in New York in the interest of his company last week, asked that the Chamber of Commerce give its indorsement to a meeting at the Benning race track the first week in November. He assured the members of the participation of aviators of national and international importance. He presented figures to the value of such flights to Washington business men. Capt. Charles J. Fox also spoke in favor of the proposition.

Curtis Will Compete.

The Aero Club of Washington is expected to give its support as well as indorse the sanction which will be given by the Aero Club of America. Among the features which would give wide publicity to the meet would be the entry of Glenn Curtiss, winner of the Gordon Bennett trophy in France last year, and which victory brought the international meet to America this year.

Assurances have been given by members of the Aero Club that efforts will be made to have a flight from New York to Washington at the time of the Washington exhibition. Prizes will be solicited for flights from Baltimore to Washington, and for a flight from Benning to the Washington Monument and return.

The indorsement of army officers has been obtained, who may try bomb dropping and other military maneuvers.

Edward H. Young, of the Aero Scientific Club, asked the favorable consideration of the Chamber of Commerce to an amateur meet, which it is proposed to hold at College Park the week of October 17. At this meeting cups will be offered to the best flights made by local owners of machines.

Joyce Not Specified.

A telegram from Col. Jerome H. Joyce, of Baltimore, was read. It was as follows:

"Have arranged for aviation meet to be held between Baltimore and Washington during the week of October 21."

A request was made that Col. Joyce be more specific.

The whole matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee with power to act. The members will consider the various plans and will consult with the aviation committee before taking final action. Efforts will be made to combine the various propositions into one grand effort, which will mean a meet for Washington that will attract national attention.

During the meeting a letter was read from C. A. Barrance, vice consul of the Cuban government, offering his aid in anything relating to Cuban commerce. He was invited to be present at the next meeting.

James E. West, secretary of the Playgrounds Association, asked the sanction of the Chamber for the horse show to be held October 25 and 26 at American League Park for the benefit of the playgrounds, under the auspices of the Washington Riders and Drivers Association.

While you think of it, telephone your Want Ad. to The Washington Herald, and bill will be sent you at 1 cent a word.

JUDGE PERKINS IN GOTHAM

Chevy Chase Cottage Is Friend of Taft and Watterson.

New York, Sept. 13.—Former Judge George G. Perkins, of Covington, Ky., who was on the bench twenty-eight years, and who is a friend of Henry Watterson, as well as a great admirer of President Taft, having tried cases in the same town with him for years when the President was a Federal Judge, is at the Waldorf.

Judge Perkins retired from the judiciary about seven years ago and resumed the practice of law, though nowadays he does not appear in the courts. He has a home at Chevy Chase, near Washington, where he puts in much of his time playing golf, but his office is in Covington.

Uncle Sam has recognized Juan J. Estrada as de facto President of Nicaragua ad interim.

This is a temporary condition, which will continue until the present provisional government terminates, and Presidential elections are held next year. President Estrada has notified the State Department, through Dr. Salvador Castillio, that he is prepared to pay an indemnity for the execution of Leroy Cannon and Leonard Groce, the two Americans who were shot by order of former President Zelaya for participating in the revolution.

He has submitted a formal request to the State Department that a commission be sent to Nicaragua to aid in the rehabilitation of the finances of the republic.

It is likely that Thomas C. Dawson, American Minister at Panama, will be the American commissioner. It is expected that a bond issue will be floated in the United States to the extent of about $15,000,000 to pay the debts of Nicaragua. The bonds will be secured by the customs revenues of the country.

The State Department has been advised of the appointment of Dr. Arellano as the representative here of the Nicaraguan government. He will succeed Dr. Castillio, who has been appointed to a post on the Central American court of justice at Cartago, Costa Rica.

PETWORTH CITIZENS HOLD FIRST MEETING

President to Get Hearing Before Commissioners.

The Petworth Citizens' Association held its first meeting of the year at Petworth M. E. Church, Shepherd street, between Georgia avenue and Eighth street northwest, last night.

C. L. Gable, secretary, was directed to communicate with the District Commissioners in regard to getting an appropriation on estimates being made for the next fiscal year for a fire house in the suburb. He was also requested to ask the Commissioners to trim the trees. Much complaint was made about the popular trees in Vernon street, between Georgia avenue and Eighth street, as the roots are breaking up the sidewalks. It was requested that these trees be removed and other suitable trees planted.

The president of the association was directed to get a hearing before the Commissioners on the purchase of thirteen acres of ground located near Eagle Lake entrance to Soldiers' Home, north of Upshur street, to be used as a public park for Petworth.

C. L. Gable resigned as secretary, owing to pressure of business, and Isaac C. Ellis was elected to fill the vacancy.
